FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Denali Communications Announces Leadership Transition

Santa Ana – January 07, 2026 –, Denali Communications Group, (“Denali”) has promoted Brandywine Communications President Michael Hash to become its new CEO effective January 2026.

This marks an exciting new chapter for Denali, a private equity-backed holding company that owns multiple aerospace and defense businesses, including ABP (Automated Business Power), BWC (Brandywine Communications), and MSS (Mountain Secure Systems).

All three companies are experiencing strong growth, and Mr. Hash is expected to help sustain and further expand that success in his new role. In parallel, Mr. Hash will continue to serve as the President of Brandywine Communications (“Brandywine”).

Brandywine, the largest Denali business unit, designs and manufactures precision time and frequency products and integrated systems that are used on satellite hubs, naval vessels, and military aircraft to ensure highly accurate and reliable communications and to support other platform missions. The products are ruggedized to perform in the most demanding environmental conditions.

Mr. Hash is a highly experienced executive having served in the United States Navy supporting Anti-Submarine Warfare platforms. Mr. Hash has 20+ years' experience having worked for DDC-I, Leonardo DRS, Safran, and IDEMIA in various roles: engineering, program management, business line management, and general management. Mr. Hash also has a BS and MS in Computer Science and Software Engineering.

“I’m honored to step into the CEO role and look forward to working with the team to build on the company’s strong foundation,” said Mr.Hash.

As part of this transition, Allen Ronk will step down from his role as Chief Executive Officer and President, whilst continuing to serve as Chairman of the Board.

The combination of Michael’s relevant technical expertise and industry experience will drive future improvements across all three companies, enhancing the quality of our products and services for customers while supporting continued growth.” said Mr. Ronk. “I’m excited to continue supporting the company from the Board and have full confidence in Michael’s leadership as Denali enters its next chapter.”
